

Ricoh MP C4502 Marketing App

As Ricoh's first foray into marketing via mobile device, this app represents a total re-engineering of its printed counterpart. The brochure's contents were disassembled and re-storyboarded to be optimal for the digital experience. Multimedia elements were then introduced to bring life to the overall product presentation, reaching levels of both value and user engagement that static content simply cannot achieve.