

Valero Oil Packaging

This package concept was produced as part of a pitch made to Valero by a third party (details are confidential). The aim of Page2's design strategy was to pursue Valero's existing branding principles in a fully developed and visually engaging way — rather than defaulting to the completely generic look that so many seem to adopt when introducing a peripheral product offering to their core services.