

LifeSkills Training: Transitions

This adaptation of the Botvin LifeSkills Training program — produced by National Health Promotion Associates — targets the health and wellness of students in career and technical education schools. The design objectives focused on a look that was less educational and more contemporary, with a sleek look and feel that would appeal to both students and teachers.