

Young World Day School Materials

Young World Day School offers an individualized approach to education for children two years old through fifth grade. The objective for their marketing and school materials was a classic elementary education approach that kept the focus on the kids and the content. Traditional colors, visuals and typography — with interspersed snapshots of the school and its students — set just the desired tone.